

Call for Volunteers

July 6 to 10, 2021 at Marseille Chanot

Who?

Students, PhD students, young scientists

What?

Are you interested in supporting the face-to-face event part of the international hybrid conference European Glial Meeting 2021 with up to 1,100 delegates?

- Session halls (admission control, helping the speakers starting the presentation, micro running for Q&A, disinfection of microphones, changing water glasses of speakers, general tidiness in halls during breaks)
- Poster corner (distribution of fixing materials for scientific poster exhibition, helping authors to find their poster board)
- Cloakroom (accept and output garments and luggage)
- Registration (helping our team to distribute name badges and conference materials)
- Set-up day July 6 (e. g. fixing poster numbers on boards, general tasks)

When?

Tuesday, July 6: around 2 pm to 6 pm

Wednesday, July 7: around 8 am to 8 pm

Thursday, July 8: around 8 am to 7.30 pm

Friday, July 9: around 8 am to 7.30 pm

Saturday, July 10: around 8 am to 4 pm

Where?

Palais de Congrès at Marseille Chanot

Benefit?

- Free access to the whole scientific program
- Getting to know an international conference behind the scenes
- Having the opportunity to meet internationally renowned Glial scientists
- Refreshments and light lunches

Contact?

If you are interested, please contact the organizer of the conference
(with complete name, email address, phone number)

Meeting Secretariat of European Glial Meeting 2021

c/o K.I.T. Group GmbH Dresden

Bautzner Str. 117–119, 01099 Dresden, Germany

Christina Norkus: +49 351 65573-136, info@glia2021.eu

www.glia2021.eu

GLIA 2021 Conference Host

Netzwerk Gliaforschung e. V.
c/o Max-Delbrück-Centrum
Robert-Rössle-Str. 10
13125 Berlin, Germany

Chair of Local Organizing Committee

Pascale Durbec
NeuroMarseille
IBDM, Aix-Marseille University-CNRS

GLIA 2021 Meeting Secretariat

c/o K.I.T. Group GmbH Dresden
Bautzner Str. 117–119
01099 Dresden, Germany
Email: info@glia2021.eu